With 0.08% separating the performance of the Fund from the benchmark Index during the calendar year, no portion of the Fund enhanced nor diminished the performance versus the Index.

Interest rates fluctuated widely throughout the year, as the investors and the Federal Reserve (the Fed) processed inflation and economic data. For its part, the Fed increased short-term interest rates four times during the year, elevating the target range to 5.25% - 5.50%. The yield on the 10-year U.S. Treasury went as low as 3.3% in April and as high as 5.0% in October, before it finished the year where it started, yielding 3.9%. Corporate credit spreads tightened throughout the year, as recessionary fears subsided, and investors' outlook turned optimistic.

The top contributors to the Fund's performance were the common stocks of Watsco, Inc. (industrial wholesale & rental), Fidelity National Financial, Inc. (mortgage finance) and Fastenal Company (industrial wholesale & rental). The Fund's weakest performing assets were the common stocks of Texas Pacific Land Corporation (royalty income - oil & gas), Genuine Parts Company (automotive parts retailer) and Chevron Corporation (integrated oils).

The Fund will continue to be managed in a conservative manner. Bond maturities on new purchases will be kept short-to-intermediate in length and credit quality will remain high. Dividend-paying common stocks in the Fund continue to offer an attractive combination of income and price appreciation potential.

We appreciate your investment in the Ave Maria Bond Fund.

The Adviser invests only in securities that meet the Fund's investment and religious requirements. The returns may be lower or higher than if decisions were based solely on investment considerations. The method of security selection may or may not be successful and the Fund may underperform or outperform the stock market as a whole. All mutual funds are subject to market risk, including possible loss of principal. The Fund's investments in small- and mid-capitalization companies could experience greater volatility than investments in large-capitalization companies. The Fund invests primarily in fixed income securities and as a result the Fund is also subject to the following risks: interest rate risk, credit risk, credit rating risk and liquidity risk. The investment performance assumes reinvestment of dividends and capital gains distributions. Performance data reflects certain fee waivers and reimbursements. Without such waivers, performance would have been lower. The Bloomberg Intermediate U.S. Govt./Credit Index is the benchmark index used for comparative purposes for this fund. Indexes do not incur fees and it is not possible to invest directly in an index. The 10-Year U.S. Treasury note is a debt obligation issued by the United States government that matures in 10 years. A 10-year Treasury note pays interest at a fixed rate once every six months and pays the face value to the holder at maturity.
